I. First Dispatch. TANNANY HALL, N. Y., July 7-12 M.

The first hallot has just been taken with the following result, viz: Pendleton Johnson sixty-five votes, and the balance pretty evenly scattered among eight other candidates. The impression is now general that Pendleton cannot receiv the requisitaltwo-third vote. The friends of President Johnson are inbilant in the inticipation of his nomination.

Second Dispatch. NEW YORK, July 7-I 40 P M. SECOND, THIED, AND FOURTH SALLOTS. In the eecond and third ballots Per dleton gained fourteen votes, but lost two on the fourth ballot. Hancock and Johnson came next in order, but each lost two votes on the last 'allot. Chase has not yet been placed in nomination. Pendle on a chances are now considered slim while it is not impossible that Hancock may be nominated, especially if Pennsylvania should east her vote for him.

Third Dispatch. New York, July 7-3 12 P. M.

Un this ballot Pendleton received one handred and twenty-two votes-an increase of three. Hancock received fortysix, Johnson thirty-four, Church thirtythree, Packer twenty-six. The remaining votes were scattered among English Doolittle, Reverdy Johnson, B'air, and Hendricks. A nomination cannot poss bly be effected to-day.

Some important business was transacted during the hour, at the expiration of which the consideration of the tax bill was resumed. The time for taxing cigars was extended to April next. A section was added empowering the Secretary and Revenue Commissioner to alter the etamp mark on spirits and tobacco. A long debate ensued on the proposition to allow compromise revenue suits, but was withdrawn and the committees amendments agreed to Several other amendments were agreed to, including that striking out the section relative to banks and bankers. The section putting the tax on whisky nt 50 cents was debated at length. Mr. Sherman explained it and Messers. The Committee on Resolutions have agreed nnarimonsly con the platform, and are ready to report promptly.

The convention was called to order by the President at 10-40.

I rayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Plummer, who referred with uppropriate feeling to the sudden death of Peter Cngger, a delegate to the convention from the State of New York.

On motion of Mr. Bigler, of Pennsylvania, the reading of the proceedings of yesterday was dispensed with.

Mr. Wright, of Deliware, submitted resolutions from Alex. Il Stepheus, of Georgia, which he asked to have read and referred. (At the name of Stephens cheers were given.) The resolutions were read by the Severtary. They declare adherence to the Union that the Union under the Constitution is the Union of States; reafirm the doctrines of Jefferson, and the uccessity of bringing the government back to their observance, the Democratic party, in sustaining the Federal Government during the late war, did itin good faith to sustain the constitution and to preserve the rights and dignities of all the States unimpaired; the high-

The Attitude of Seymour as an Aspirant.

Governor Horatio Seymour has again-and this time with emphasis and reiter-tion—declined to be a candidate for th Presidential nomination of the New Cork acy. At a meeting of the New York delegation yesterday, in reply to some complimentary allusions intended to cal him out, Governor Seymour referred to his declining the honor of being considered a candidate some months ago, and easid that he still adhered to the purpose them announced, he desired that the New-York delegation would not presen his name to the convention, and begged his friends not to persist in pressing it. s name to the convention, and begge s friends not to persist in pressing it. A CHARACTER. Near Tammany Hall an enthusiastic and enterprising individual induced an obliging delegate to hold an umbrella over him white he ventilated his opinions from a dozen pages of manuscript to an edified and admiring audience. He was a small, stout man, with a large whiskler, the color of an old meerachaum pipe, and the tile under which his semarkable head was conceiled looked as if it might have originally belonged to Jem Baggs, the wandering minetrel. Fauers had a habit of laying his hat down umbrella afforded, to the discomfort of the orator, who was adverse to a solitary ray of aunlight reflecting ou the political aergeon be held in his hands.

"Think!" he exclaimed, drawing ont his muscular arm as far as he could—but elbow room being at a premium the attitude he desired to atrike was lost—"think of the glorious old Democratic party, the auti-abolition, free trade, hard money, white man's party, taking np a caudidate reageing from such men as Butler, Sammer, Stevens, and the whole crew of nignerrot, shough there was that it the cor-ter of the speaker's eye which plainly earld, "Wait till I get through with this piece of humbuggery and I'll partake of a Democratic drick with you." But for ithe bold and manly stand he took in the impeachment trial and saved Johnson and kept that darned old radical sucker, Ben Wade, out of the White House and the whole crowd of his Infernal satellite, I'd like to know what chance we'd have in this campaign." This took as a good hit; It was fresh and originel, and as such awakened attention and made Chese a prominent figure in that group.

The FUN AT THE TEMPLE OP MASONRY.

In front of the Masonic itial, where Dimmycrats, and we're goin' to elect Chase: mind that now,"

The Southerner might have felt dubious of this assertion, but he was pleased to hear that anybody was about being electhear that anybody was about being elected who might relieve his unhappy section from its present threadom.

"Yis, sir," continued Pat, "Chase is my chice, and I'll tell you the raison why. The Irish people admire nothin more than justice, and in the ould country they see damn little of that. Hangin' and thransportation was plinty enough in my time, and uot long ago Judge Kergh, the blagard, sent two brothers called McCormick to the gallows and knew they were innocent. Chase showed justice to Johnson, and we admire him for that, and that's the raison he's my chice."

he's my chice."

This was delivered with that Hibernian energy of expression which is hard to counterfeit. The Southern listeners appeared to take more interest in the speaker, and an animated discussion followed, the Irishman taking the lasd, and painting a coulest de rosse picture of the future, the near approach of the political millensions, and the happy fruition of the brightest Democratic dreams.

inture, the near approach of the political millennium, and the happy fruition of the brightest Democratic dreams.

"Yis, sir," again spoke Pat, getting warmed up to his anished and using a napkin ornamented with slight traces of mustard over his capacious brow, "when we get the government this time we're not goin' to kas it, and such gintlamen as yeu will come back to your onld place in the Union, 'requerated and disentiralled,' as Counseilor Curran used to asy. Yie, sir, 'never say die, will he our moito. 'Croppies lie down' was the tune the Orangemu used to play when they waiked over the Papista in Ireland iong ago, but cur music will be 'Lie down and be dammed to the radicula.' The nay-groes is not goin' to keep the upper hand to the South and the bloody party that tacks 'em up is goin' to blazes fasther than a horse can trat."

"That's the talk," parenthetically remarked a bystander.

"Give 'em bell," observed another, "fite," chimed in a third who meant to supply the preceding speaker with the accepted termination to classic his phrase-olegy. Pat went on rattling over the political field with a desh and point that charmed his hearer, and thus did one of the many groups pass the time.

quick reply," usual on such occasions, rushed into tumnituous caucus, end succeeded so well in exciting perspiration over the vexed questions of the two-third rule, greenbacks, Pendieton, aufrege, and Chase that it required the united efforts of four bar-keepers to supply the proper remedies. The emblazoned notice posted leihrd some of the bars, "No mixed drirks during a rush," was very significant of excitement. The delegation are of the opinion that Pendieton is the coming man, and warmly urge his nomination on the representatives from other States. The Ohio delegation were somewhat chef-fallen over the two-third rule, but swore as hard as usual and sought consolation where it could be found for vigorcus "hollering" and twenty cents a drink. Hillinois, Wisconsin and all the other Western States are blessed with representatives who, being well aware that eternal caucusing is the price of nomination, never lose an opportunity of pushing their candidate. The New England delegations discussed the prospects in the light of yesterday's proceedings over hard cider, and unanimously agreed to disagree with everybody and everything. The New Jersey delegation, undefrantic with deep draugats of "lightining," burst on the atartled plotters of the town last night with a pamphelting inges. Governor Joel Parker for the Democratic nomination, but with the particle of the Electrical and Electrical and the Electrical and Electrical and the Electrical and Electrical and the Electrical and

THE DELEGATES AT EASE—THE CHASE STAU ASCENDING.

Among the paychological symptoms of the day must be considered the peculiar affinity existing between whisky and Democratic principles. Like fire-crackers and patriotism, it is an alliance not clearly understandable under the oddinary rules governing attraction, but it is a condition of things that must be considered as su genera, the existence of which is incontrovertible. Making a tenr through the botels last evening, the delegates were found developing this idea, mir gling in serious discussion Bourbon cocktails and sours with Pendletoul-

And number three poked in the reinark, "Pendleton has a mill tor grinding them out to pay the escort."

Number four, not to be behind hand, came in with the criticism that "Pendleton's face on the bill looked had for a drink." Number five followed, and helped out the joke by saying, "Guess Chase would be taken around the corner quicker," and number aix completed the half dezeu of jocular youths with a profound effort that the bill had a very verdant appearance.

THE SCHTIMENT OF DIXIE.

The Southern delegates, however, have far more ponderous evils to complain of than this. They speak dolefully of the heavy burden of military and negro governments combined, and to a man would yote for any candidate who could help the overthrow of radical rule. Give ns Chase, give us any man, they say, who will accomplish this; but, for the Lord's aske, let us have no candidate with whom there is a likelihood of being beaten. This is exactly the sentiment of these Southaru men, all accounts to the coutrary not-Van furen had 146 out of 233 votes cast; on the ninth ballot he had only two votes left; for Polk, a fresh nag, was just then brought in, and a general rush for Polk nominated him, to the astonishment of all concerned. In the Baltimore Convention of 1852 the old stagers, nine of them, fought pretty etubbornly to that the property of the property of the stagers, nine of them, fought pretty etubbornly to that the property of the property of the stagers, nine of them, fought pretty etubbornly to that the property of the property of the stagers, nine of them, fought pretty etubbornly to the stagers, nine of the man of the forty-ninth round he walked over the course. This is the genne of the Albany Regency with Seymour. It is to keep him back until his rivals ars worn out and kilfed off, and then to charge with him after the fashion of the Old Guard of Napoleon, at the turning-point of the battle, fresh and vigorous, against the exhausted center of the eneny's line, break it, double up the two wings, rout them, and take possession of the field.

There are two cliques among the managers of the New York delegation—a Seymour clique and a McClelon clique, Certain Democratic financiers of this city, who made some sacrifices of "der monish" in benaff of McClellan in 1894, would like to get it back, and doubless his exactly the sentiment of these Southern men, all accounts to the coutrary not-withstanding. Of course it would be misrepresentation to state that they have any love for Chase, for if things were otherwise than they are they would trample his name and the name of every other anch prominent Republican under their feet, but expediency is all the world to them, while to the Western men the cry of principle is preferred.

this is the game of the Albany Regency in behalf of Seymour. In this view very ittle faith is to be placed in the professions and promises of the New York delegation in behalf of Chase. They are using him as a convenient instrument with which to lay out Pendleton, their most formideble enemy. Pandiston is too strong to be besten by a direct attack, and etrategy must be resorted to. There is something to admire in the bold and Statistic money is stronger than principles in the convention.

Stmething Eas been said in the papers about the conduct of the Pendleton men, and the zeal and determination they express to carry their point, it is even charged that they threaten to beat any nomination but that of George R. Pendleton. There is not a worf of truth in this. The men who are working for Pendleton are not the kind thet emberk in the bolting business. If any of them have used bolting language toward any of the other candidatee, it is because they have been provoked to it by the threats of New York bondholders to beat Pendleton at any cost.

At eight o'clock this morning all was enthusiasm at the headquertere of the Pencleton escort of Cincinnati. Both the brass and field bands were out in with renderon sougs. General Surgent hed arrenged for a grand parade of the Cincinuatians, and et nine o'clock the procession was formed three hundred and fifty strong. From the headquerters, accompanied by the musicians, and cerrying the emblems of the Democratic party, together with the well-known greenback fluxs the secont proceeded to Teuback.

Asmall unmber of the Philadelphians appeared on the streeta early this morning carrying a banner on which was inscribed. "For President, Aas Packer, of Pennsylvania." This, however, created very little enthusianu, the mejority of the club joining the Western men in advecating the cause of Pendleton.

From freing Hall, General Sargent marched the fiscort to Cooper Institute, where the National Convention of Soldiers and Sallors is being held. Having obeyed the cruler to halt, three rousing cheers were given for the patriots and veterans of the late war. This mark of respect was recognized by the soldiers in an appropriate menner. The Excort then marched to the Fifth Avenue Hotel, whers the Ohio delegation make their headquartere, in front of this hotel they countermarched and came to a balt. The boys being in line, General Sargent proposed three cheers and a tiger for the Ohio delegation and all the friends of Pendleton. The cheers were given with a will, and were responded to by the thousands who had congregated in the vicinity with an unmistikable evidence of their devolton to the Young Eagle of the West. The column then tock upils line of march by l'nion Square to Broadway, and thence to their headquarters, where they were dismissed.

All slong the line of march by l'nion Square to Broadway, and thence to their headquarters of the Eacort were visited by the delegates from Arkensas, Florida, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and severni other States, who were entertained as well as circumetances allowed.

Among the incldents noted in the convention wers the appearance of Vallandigham as an Ohio delegate; the exhibition of Dr. Olds, of scarcity-of-Bible-and waste-paper memory, as a Vies President of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property.

The Southern delegates have little to say for the reporters, but they keep up an exchange of views among themselves that it is a juty could not be reported. Some of them to-day laughed, and shook their heads, and gneshed their teeth when the huncombe resolutions about the Annelizan tigs effording protection in every land were read. Fil-bustering in the afternoon session to-day wesquite active, and et one times there were strong indications that the convention would halot for a candidate without waiting for the report of the Committee on Recolutions. Afr. Fendle-ton'e friends were anxious to press the nomination before the adoption of the platform; and so were the friends of Messrs. English, Hancock, and Church. The New York delegation voted in favor of proceeding to ballot, and was loudly applauded by the apectators. The galleries evidently wished the balloting to take piece early, and became so noisy that the Sergeaut-at-arma was asked to preserve order.

Some New Yorkers sey that, while appearing to essils the Pendleton movement, New Yorkers hed great hopes of nominaling Chase, if the balloting could be pressed forward until a candidate was chosen.

Gov. Seymout's rppearance on the platform was the signal for a tresh outburst of appliause, but hardly so enthusistle as was expected of a Democratic Convention. Hie speech was too tong and too badly learn to accure much applicuse. It dealt in glittering generalities and in attacks upon the Republican purty, being stidently destuned to fit suy caseddate or platform the convention in Lt nake.

A resolution from the National Labor Association, favoring the Pendieton green-back plan, evoked the first genuins outbust of enthusiasm, all the Western dailegates rising to cheer, wave hats and hendkerchiets, and perheps a hind of those in the galleries joining them. There were uo expressions of disapproval, but Esstern men locked very gram.

Susan B. Anthony was uncersumoniously sunbbed out. Her letter asking to be heard before the convention wes received with great laughter, and, on Mr. Saymour's proposing to refer it to the Platform Committee, the convention tumultunally demanded its reading. The reading was accompanied by uproarious laughter and cheering, and thereupon Susan, instead of heing invited to this platform, was referred to the Platform Committee and so suppressed. The applause seemed more evenly distributed over the hall than in any of the previous demonstrations.

Great confusion is preveiling, and Tammany Hall is proving itself about the worst hall in the United States for hearing a speaker in.

SIXTH DISPATCH.

Opinions differ as to the effects of the postponement of the nominations till after the adoption of the pletform. It is a noticeable fact that the States of Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York all dodged the vote, apparently unwilling to risk voting ou the losing side, or to hazard their prestige.

The first performence this afteruoon was the reception of Sergeant Bates and his faded flag. He entered unheralded, and the convention began cheering, under the impression that his flag betokened the approach of the delegates from the Soldiers' and Sallors' Convention, then expected; but the ismous Sergeant, utfired in full suit of tight-fitting black velvet, with cavalry top boote, made his way to the platform, bowed his thanks for the cheers, and disappeared just about the tilne the convention began to suspect that the performance was almost as ludicrons as that of Miss Authony.

THE SOLDIERS' AND BAHLORS' CONVEN-TION.

The Gazette's special gives the follow-ing report of the Soldiers' and Sailers' Convention, It is perhaps as tair and in partial as we could expect from that ltraradical source:

NEW YORK, July 6. The soldiers and sallors were not so The schiers and saiors were not so fortunate in their demonstration to-day as on Saturday. The cut-and-dried programmie lawing lean haved through by the officers, the boys took the thing in hand and executed the tarce, and, when these had trangurated a high old true, many of the officers joined in, and to-

The delegates met at Union Squere and waited for the Naw Jersey delegation, when they all proceeded to their hall, passing by Temmany upon the route. Before marching, between eighteen hundred and nineteen hundred delegates, exclusive of those from Naw York and New Jersey, had ragistered, and so with the bands, some volunteer artillary, and a dezen torn battle flags, &c., the outside demonstration was very creditable, and more imposing than on Saturday.

One wanted the convention to acout the use of the word reconstruction, and substitute restoration, and then for a time so many ware readileg and shouting at once as to completely drown each other.

After half an hour, a sailor discovered that in all the resolutions yet offered no mention wes made of the sailors, and iy motion they were inserted in all after the word "soldier." The same accident happened to the sailors on Saturday.

A tien Brown, of Missouri, who acted stapidly enough, was yet bright enough to carry through en order that everybody who was on the platform and wanted to speak, should "come down among the rest of us," as he expressed it. attred in equeer uniform which resembles a feilow just as he jumps out of bed in the morning in all except color, repaired to the mail boat and blooked themselves for the stronghold of the enemy. Arriving there they visited the field of battle and made a survey of the position, after which they retired to rest and to reconstrate for the azconn nay, and the day which was to decide the question of Louisville va. Carroliton. The advent of this club we expect created as great a furore among the nusophisticated Carrolitoniaus as the Nationals did at the City of the Falls last season—anyhow, the town emptied itself on the commons, where the contest was to take place. Both clubs, their modsaty nothing daunted by the immense crowd, came to time, and Captain Nicholson, of the Louisville Olympics, having been chosen umpire, the gams was commenced. As Reverend Lambert Young, the Catholic priest of this place, is now confined in Jail at Lonisville, charged with contempt of your court in decliuing to answer certain inquiries before the grand jury concerning the breaking the jail, and hanging a negro man in Frankfort last winter by a mob, I deem it due to Father Young, as well as to all concerned, to state the circumstances under which he went to the jail to endesvor to disperse the mole and prevent the black man from being hung. What affect these facts will have upon the question of privilege claimed by the priest will be tor your bonor to determine.

About noon of the day preceding the hangirg of the colored man, I learned that the Irish friends of the girl said to have been violated were meditating violence, and that they would probably attempt to break the jail and hang him that night. I went to a number of the leading Irlahmen of the city, and be Terms cash. THOS. ANDERSON & CO.,
